

'Azerbaijan is threatened by conflicts'

28 JUNE 2012 [10:50] - TODAY.AZ

The Hungarian Magyar Nemzet newspaper has published political columnist Gabor Laszlo Zord`s article "Azerbaijan is threatened by conflicts". The author noted the rapid development of Azerbaijan and the country`s economic potential thanks to successful policy of President Ilham Aliyev.

Gabor Laszlo Zord underlined Azerbaijan`s hosting the Crans Montana Forum is an indication of Azerbaijan`s commitment to Euroatlantic values and the country`s intention to cement its positions in the world politics.

However, according to the author, not everybody is happy with the rapid development of Azerbaijan. In this regard, the author first mentions aggressive Armenia: "There is no city or village, which did not provide shelter to Azerbaijani refugees who were forced to leave their homes as a result of Armenia`s aggression, and almost no family in which someone wasn`t killed or wounded in the wake of this frozen conflict. And although people moved from the first, hastily constructed refugee camps into modern homes, funeral anniversaries, following one another each year, once again reopen unhealed old wounds. In February 2012 Azerbaijan commemorated the twentieth anniversary of the loss of Khojaly, and in May the city of Shusha, Armenian occupation of which was accompanied by massacres of civilians."

"Although the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict is considered frozen, currently hot and strenuous process takes place around it. Azerbaijan faces injustice, inaction of the Minsk Group and indifference of the international community, and if this country takes more effective measures for the liberation of its land, it shouldn`t be surprising for anyone".