

Bulgaria's minister Pavlova awarded one of New Leaders for Tomorrow by Crans Montana Forum (ROUNDUP)

14 June 2015 | 02:01 | FOCUS News Agency

Brussels. Bulgarian Minister of Regional Development and Public Works Lilyana Pavlova was awarded as one of the New Leaders for Tomorrow at the 26th edition of the prestigious World economic forum Crans Montana Forum, held in Brussels, the press office of the Bulgarian ministry announced. The initiative is of the Foundation of the World Economic Forum and aims at uniting the potential and efforts of the young leaders from all over the world and seeking the right decisions and solutions for tackling the challenges of the 21st century, to work together for the better future of their counties, the region and the whole world.

The prestigious membership is obtained after a nomination by distinguished young leaders from all over the world aged under 42.

The choice of the jury is based on the professional achievements of the candidates, their contribution to socially important causes and their leader's skills.

Ms Pavlova will be member of the prestigious club in the next three years – from 2015 until 2018. The 26th edition of the forum is themed "Living with Crises – Who Will Be the Winners?".

The Crans Montana Forum is an International Organisation, Swiss owned and managed, whose importance and prestige have been well-established since 1986. It is formally recognised by all major International Organisations.

The philosophy of the Founding Fathers has always been to build a more Humane and Impartial World: "Committed to a more Humane and Impartial World". The Crans Montana Forum works for the promotion of international cooperation and contributes to global growth while ensuring a high level of stability, equity and security. It aims also to foster best practices and ensure a global dialogue. The Crans Montana Forum works in close cooperation with institutional partners such as the UN, UNESCO, UNIDO, ISESCO, NATO, the European Union, the Council of Europe, OFID etc and with major international Groups.